Curious and energetic user experience researcher, strategist and service designer skilled at balancing creative design research techniques with rigor to yield insights that inspire vision and drive evidence-based design decisions among cross-functional teams. My multidisciplinary background spans the design, technology, enterprise, consumer, corporate, nonprofit, civic, health, education and entertainment sectors with perspective that is bottom-up and top-down— from the field and behind the scenes. I am passionate about deeply understanding people, systems, and contexts through an inclusive, trauma-informed lens to thoughtfully design human and organizational experiences.
